
Q: I have two premises numbers, one from the CCIA and one from my province, which do I use?

A: You should use your provincially recognized premises number. All provinces and territories except for Nunavut and Northwest Territories now have provincially assigned premises numbers. Prior to the provincial systems, the CLTS created PID numbers to enable movement recording but those numbers are no longer valid unless they were 'grandfathered'.

In some cases, the provinces were able to 'grandfather' existing CCIA premises numbers. Producers would have been notified by their province of the appropriate PID to use. 'Grandfathered' numbers from AB will start with an 'AB'. Alberta Agriculture created premises numbers start with an 'AA' or an 'AT'. All other provinces premises numbers whether 'grandfathered' or not begin with the abbreviated letters of your province, e.g. Manitoba is MB.

Once you have registered your legal land information with your province you can add the assigned premises number to your CLTS account. You can either replace the existing CLTS generated number or add the new number. Click here for instructions on how to do so.
